Excel at Managing for High Performance

Why do some businesses succeed while others struggle? Because they invest in managers who can transform individuals into high performance teams. Become a leader who empowers employees and gets results.

Guide Dynamic Teams Effectively

Organizations today need managers who do more than supervise employees and enforce policies. To stay ahead of the competition, businesses need managers who can build teams that maximize efficiency, drive profitability and produce results.

If you want to improve the productivity of your team, change careers or enhance your chances for a promotion, a certificate in Managing for High Performance can help you achieve your goal. Get certified and gain the skills to:

- Develop teams that are effective and motivated
- Mentor employees to become resourceful and innovative
- Increase your influence
- Prioritize projects and resources
- Set metrics and goals
- Implement effective evaluation and change management techniques

Learn and Grow with Other Leaders Like You

This nine-month program gives you a diverse set of skills to move up to the next stage in your career.

Build Your Network

You'll connect with other managers enhancing their own careers, allowing you to learn from their experiences and expand your professional network.

Study with the Pros

Learn from seasoned executives who derive their expertise from many years of management and consulting in the business world.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, the job outlook for managers remains positive:

- Since top managers are essential to the success of any organization, their jobs are unlikely to be automated or eliminated.
- 50 percent of general and operations managers earned between $52,420 and $118,310 in recent years. (As the responsibilities of managers vary significantly within industries, earnings can vary considerably.)
